"Two women having a breakthrough year are Gugu Mbatha-Raw and Lubaina Himid. Similarly, Lubaina, whose beautiful canvases made history by winning the Turner Prize aged 63. They also both happen to be women of colour. Did this, perhaps, have something to do with why they have had to wait longer for their successes? Whatever the reason, it is the sort of question more of us asking in 2018. And how heartening, in a fantasy season, to see that overdue dreams can come true, too." Edward Enninful, Editor-in-Chief, British Vogue.
